TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Prize Winning Essay By Ashley St. Clair in Maine Old Folks' Club Contest.

The present day amenities of our daily life were unknown and in many cases undreamed of 75 years ago, but the simple pleasures of the youth of that day were as heartily enjoyed as those of the 20th Century boys and girls, writes Judge Ashley St. Clair of Calais, in one of the prize-winning essays in the contest conducted by the Maine Three-Quarter Century Club. Judge St. Clair is a cousin of the late Asa P. St. Clair of Rockland. His essay, which will be found of general interest, follows:

"Seventy-five years ago, 1851, that is the year the yacht 'America' defeated the English yacht off the Isle of Wight—winning the cup that has remained here ever since, 1851, less than 20 years after the invention of telegraphy, people still stood in awe of the telegraph preferring to communicate by mail—slow but sure, they said. Then, too, it was expensive, for 75 years ago money was scarce and high. Only skilled mechanics got two dollars a day—an ordinary carpenter or machinist got $1.50—a common laborer, seventy-five cents—a good farm hand could get as much as ten or twelve dollars a month and his board—an extra good man might get fifteen dollars.

"Seventy-five years ago there were few railroads. The usual manner of travel was by stage-coach or other horse-drawn vehicle. The roads were seldom in good condition and it was a good horse that could go fifty miles a day and keep it up at that rate.

"Truck wagons were drawn by horses or oxen and it was a common sight to see a farmer in town who had come ten or twelve miles with a load of produce drawn by oxen. Such a trip took a whole day and resulted, if fortune smiled on him, in a profit of two or three dollars. Think of it—a man, a wagon and two oxen, all day in earning three dollars.

"But then money would buy more of the necessities of life than it will now. In 1851 tallow candles were used for illumination. There were burning flues—most of them dangerous. While oil was used to some extent, and old whale oil lamps are still shown as curiosities—many people had molds and run their own candles.

"Seventy-five years ago seed was sown, dropped, covered, cultivated by hand—the mower and reaper were unknown. Grain was cut with a sickle and threshed with a flail—hay was mowed with a hand scythe—raked and handled by hand. In farming communities 75 years ago cooking was done in the fire-place and baking in brick ovens. Cook stoves were coming into use but were scorned by many good housewives as food spoilers.

"Ready-made clothing was unknown. Sewing and knitting were home duties—it was quite a number of years after 1851 before the sewing machine came into general use. Spinning and weaving were common accomplishments—the whirr-r-r of the spinning wheel and the thump-ump of the hand loom were often heard.

"There were no daily papers—and not many weeklies. The arrival of the 'Gospel Banner,' 'The Maine Farmer' or the 'Portland Transcript' was an event in many households. Families exchanged papers and hoarded them. Many an attic contained files of the weekly papers, such a file of the 'Gospel Banner' and 'Belfast Age' was possessed by my Uncle George and afforded us great entertainment on rainy days and Sundays.

"The young people of today, I imagine, think it must have been rather a dull world—no trolley cars, no automobiles, no flying machines, no moving picture shows—but after all, I think we laughed as often and as merrily as people do now-a-days. There was everywhere always a lot of play mixed in with the hard work and the total of human happiness was large.

"The generation living 75 years ago visaged the coming of the Civil War. There was great political unrest and much excitement during electoral campaigns. The boy of '51 was the soldier of '51 and the work he did testifies eloquently of the kind of people who lived in Maine and the other States at that time.

"Maine was not a populous State. It contained less than 650,000 people—not so many as live in the City of Boston. Yet first and last the old Pine Tree State sent over 70,000 men for the armies and navies of the Republic."

DISASTROUS FIRE VISITS WATER FRONT

Penobscot Fish Co. Plant Destroyed—A. C. McLoon & Co. and Thorndike & Hix Lobster Co. Suffer—Loss Exceeds $30,000—Capt. Charles L. Philbrook Dead—Hoseman Clark Injured.

One man is dead, several firemen injured, three of the most important lobster companies on the Atlantic coast put out of commission and a property damage estimated at $30,000, is the result of the disastrous fire which was discovered shortly before 11 o'clock last night in the plant of the Penobscot Fish Co. on the McLoon wharf. The dead man is Capt. Charles L. Philbrook, a well known and very difficult of access for the firemen.

The section occupied by the Fish Co. was connected with the rest of the wooden section by a second story section, the first floor being open to allow trucks to pass to the loading platform on the opposite side of the wharf, and it was at this point that Chief Havener made his first desperate stand and in the face of almost impossible circumstances, held the flames.

about 4 o'clock. Capt. Philbrook was one of Rockland's old time steamboat men, having started with Capt. O. A. Crockett in the Henry Morrison and the Bluehill and having run on such well known craft as the Little Rockland, the Juliet, Catherine, Morse and his last command. He was in his 59th year and is survived by his wife and three sons, Herbert, Austin and Everett.

Strenuous and prolonged efforts were made to save Capt. Philbrook's brook of the steamer Southport who was called to move his vessel from its dangerous berth at Tillson wharf and in getting aboard fell to his death. The most severely injured was Adelbert M. Clark, a fireman who was blown from a second story window to the wharf below. Several other firemen suffered minor injuries.

The losers were the Penobscot Fish Co., Thorndike & Hix and A. C. McLoon & Co. The huge building occupied by the Penobscot Fish Co. is level this morning and the wharf, a pile and stone affair also owned by A. C. McLoon & Co. is badly damaged. The loss was well covered by insurance.

The watchman employed on the premises had made his 10 o'clock rounds and was engaged in his usual between-while task of packing lobsters when his attention was attracted by a crackling and investigation disclosed a brisk blaze near the chimney in the Penobscot Fish Co. plant. Seeing that the blaze was already beyond his control he hurried toward Box 33 at the nearby corner when he was met by the engines, a telephone call from one who had seen the flames coming through the roof having brought them. Immediately upon arrival Chief Havener saw the extreme hazard and turned in a second alarm, calling out all the men and apparatus in the city. The roof of the Penobscot Fish Co.'s huge building was already aflame and a stiff wind which increased momentarily was blowing out of the southwest. McLoon wharf is several hundred feet long and is entirely covered with wooden buildings, the whole being highly inflammable and very difficult of access for the firemen.

The section occupied by the Fish Co. was connected with the rest of the wooden section by a second story section, the first floor being open to allow trucks to pass to the loading platform on the opposite side of the wharf, and it was at this point that Chief Havener made his first desperate stand and in the face of almost impossible circumstances, held the flames.

Lines laid by Engines I and II using the half mile of hose they carry between them, were laid and Engine II despatched to Central Fire Station for more hose, the big American La France, Hodgdon at the throttle, meantime pumping from the land side of the dock, the tide fortunately being high. Meantime the Berry and Burpee hose companies arrived and ran additional hoses until the Chief had eight lines at his disposal. Another fortunate circumstance was a still further shifting of the wind to the west.

Hoseman Clark was directing a stream through a second story window of the Fish Co. building when a great swirl of flames swept him from the ladder to the wharf below, rendering him unconscious. He was borne through the swirling smoke to safety while a comrade took the stream and went back to the window. Mr. Clark was taken to a waiting car but recovered consciousness and with characteristic courage insisted upon returning to the fight in spite of his injuries and was taken home by main force.

The fire was spectacular in the extreme when the tarred roof of the structure burst into flame, the great clouds of smoke and sparks rolling out toward Tillson wharf.

It was this menace that resulted in the death of Capt. Philbrook. In the uncertain light of the fire he made a mis-step in boarding his boat and fell between ship and wharf, striking his head on the guard rail and thence falling into the water. Willing hands promptly brought him to the ship's deck and medical attendance was had but he never regained consciousness and died

Rockland Fleet Goes To New York Concern Which Is Also Said To Have Eyes On Deep Sea Plant.

The sale of the 14 trawlers belonging to the Deep Sea Fisheries, Inc., to the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Company of 16 Exchange Place, New York City, has been practically consummated according to a report which reaches The Courier-Gazette from reliable sources. The ships will be re-conditioned as rapidly as possible, and one of them—the Widgeon, will be taken to Boston for the present.

The Portland Trawling Company, which is the operating concern of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Company, now has four trawlers in commission, and to these will add the newly acquired fleet.

It is an open secret that the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Company is looking for a manufacturing center other than New York, and to a few it has been known for some weeks that the New York interests have been making an extended survey of the Deep Sea Fisheries plant. No deal looking to the acquisition of this plant has yet been made, owing to the present financial status, but the situation is one that offers no little encouragement.

Ira M. Cobe, who has a fine summer estate in Northport, is chairman of the board of directors of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Company, and is keenly interested in the fishing industry of the Maine coast.

The New York concern is an extensive manufacturer of filets, frozen and prepared by an entirely new method, and is said to have a very extensive market in the Middle West.

THE GIRL SCOUTS

Public Invited To Attend Their First Meeting Tomorrow Evening.

Wednesday evening citizens will have opportunity to witness a real Girl Scout meeting. At 7:15 sharp assembly will be called and all of the Girl Scouts in Rockland with Thomaston scouts as their guests will come to attention in the first public scout meeting. The High School gymnasium has been chosen for this assembly.

The first part of the evening will be given over to the formal investiture of new scouts, this investiture being made by Mrs. William Ellingwood, commissioner of the local council. Following this impressive service, dear to the heart of every Girl Scout, the evening will be given over to the games and contests through which the girls are taught the elements of real scouting. There will be a balance relay; a game involving knowledge of the points of the compass; one calling for keen powers of observation; and a relay requiring knowledge of knot tying. Scout songs will be sung and original dramatizations of the scout laws will be enacted by the different patrols, these having been worked out by the girls themselves.

Scouting for girls is new in Rockland. It is but little developed in the State. This city has the distinction of having the first registered council in Maine. Much credit is due the council and its faithful leaders for the splendid work they have done since their organization this summer. Though this is but the earliest stages of scouting, come and see for yourself what has been done. Become acquainted with its methods and aims and better understand the possibilities of such work with the girls of this city. The meeting is public. The girls and their council have spared no effort in organizing the work. Give them your support.

DENIES A RUMOR

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

During my recent visit to Rockland, early in October, it was brought to my attention that a rumor was about that I was to build a large hotel on Bear Hill and the A. B. Packard place adjoining, which I recently purchased. I wish you would publish this letter as an absolute denial of any such intention. This place was purchased by me purely as a summer home proposition. The only building I expect to do is to modernize the old farm house and this at a later date. The properties that I purchased are part of the original Daniel Packard farm (my mother being a Packard) and has been in the family exclusively since 1809.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

THE MILLER'S DAUGHTER

It is the miller's daughter,
And she is grown so dear, so dear,
That I would be the jewel
That trembles at her ear:
For hid in ringlets dark and night,
I'd touch her neck so warm and white,
And I would be the girle
About her dainty, dainty waist,
And her heart would beat against me,
In sorrow and in rest;
And I should know if it beat right,
I'd clasp it round so close and tight.

And I would be the necklace,
And all day long to fall and rise
Upon her bony bosom,
With her laughter or her sighs,
And I would lie so light, so light,
I scarce should be unclasp'd at night.

CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT
Rockland, Maine, Oct. 26, 1926.
I, the undersigned, being the publisher of the above-named newspaper, do hereby certify that the circulation of the same for the week ending October 23, 1926, was as follows: Total circulation, 5,434 copies.
Before me, FRANK R. MILLER,
Notary Public.

In these times when the wide and paralyzing hand of jazz has been laid as well upon literature as nearly everything else, it is refreshing to observe the Youth's Companion, celebrating its one-hundredth anniversary, still adhering to a standard which it set up at the beginning and during its century of useful life has never departed from. Its publishers note the fact that the magazine retains its place in the home through successive generations. Let the writer of this paragraph testify to that fact by stating, that while the paper was yet in its first decade of publication his mother's childhood name went upon its subscription list, followed half a century later by his own name, then by the name of his son, and now by that of a grandson. We have always regarded the Companion as among the exponents of the highest type of literature—Youth's Companion is the official title of it, but that is merely a name. We know of men and women grown old who continue to count themselves among its steady readers.

There must be keen disappointment to all persons who have felt that there was to be a reduction in the cost of living in the figures furnished by the Government in regard to this subject. Following statements showing increases in wholesale prices of food the bureau of labor statistics has issued a bulletin which shows an increase of about one and three-fourths percent in retail food prices within the last sixty days. The salience contained in the bulletin is that there is a decrease of nearly one-third of one percent during the past year. But it will hardly be worth while to go over your bills for the year in order to see if you shared in the decrease.

We dare say every reader recalls his trip to New York that landed him in a hotel next to which a new steel building was under erection—a building where day and night throughout his stay the compressed-air riveter was engaged in making the structure safe for democracy. Such victims of broken rest will hail with joy the announcement that the clamorous riveter is to be succeeded by a welding process, noiseless but structurally effective. Thus the world is one day's march nearer that longed-for time when the ears of the defenceless citizen shall no longer be split by the unnecessary noises of industry and traffic.

We shall be surprised if the motion pictures dealing with the life of Christ fall of achieving their purpose in the creation of an added drawing power on the part of the churches. Churchmen of all denominations, the announcement declares, cooperated in making the pictures, which are intended principally for use in supplementing religious services, their sponsor, William E. Harmon, expressing the hope that they "would help to revitalize interest in the church service and give Sunday morning golf courses a rest cure."

The matter of storm windows now falling for consideration, it is proper to lay emphasis upon the fact that when the shrewd weather of advance winter does manifest itself, it were the part of household diplomacy to have the extra windows in their destined places, rather than reposing impotently in the cellar. Storm doors and windows are a necessary ingredient of these northern regions and should not be neglected.

In last week's list of deaths from automobile accidents Massachusetts hung up a total of 19. The Commerce Department at Washington, reporting from 78 of the larger cities of the country, registers a total of 656 such deaths in the past four weeks. Taking the country over the killings by the automobile during a year attain to appalling figures.

These attractive folders issued by the steamship lines make it almost imperative that one should go upon a winter trip, either to the Mediterranean or West Indies. For ourselves we favor the former—say the Mediterranean this winter and the West Indies next. [Lum-tee-di-dee-di-dee—hums a bar of "A life on the ocean wave" and goes back to his mittens.]

As if Armenia hadn't troubles enough at the hands of her historical oppressor the Turk, comes now an earthquake, destroying lives and property to a pitiful extent. It is good to know that the Near East Relief continues its active organization and is in position to send funds immediately into the afflicted region.

Chairman Scott of the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries was recently defeated in the primaries. His loss was Maine's gain, for Congressman White of the Second District automatically becomes chairman of that all-important committee.

"ON MY SET"

The blockade on good radio reception was lifted during the later hours of Saturday night, and the music furnished by WJZ and other stations on that chain came in gloriously. Some fans report as many as five Chicago stations, but I had to be content with two, WLS and WJAZ—I heard again the Ottawa time signals at 9 p. m., but the announcement was not very clear. Dr. Oscar Wasgatt, a former Bangor dentist, now located in Boston, and brother of Dr. R. J. Wasgatt of this city, is to be heard in several violin selections over WBZ tomorrow night. Dr. Wasgatt was at one time concert master for the orchestra at the Maine Music Festival.

Mrs. J. R. Fife Friday evening listened in on WJZ and heard Queen Marie. Mr. Gerry introduced Her Majesty and the Queen gave an extended address, full of interest to the American people, thousands of whom doubtless heard it. Stanley Walsh, a Rockland boy is soon to broadcast a number of piano solos (popular music) from Station WTAC of Worcester, Mass. The date has not been announced, but it will be very soon. Mr. Walsh is studying with a very capable teacher—Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Brennan are getting excellent results from a new 5-tube Standardyne.

The Jones Motor Co. is unloading a carload of cars today and among the new arrivals is one of the four-door sedans for which the Paige Detroit Motor Car Co. wants a name. If you wish to submit one you stand a chance of winning a slice of the $10,000. The car will be on exhibition beginning tonight.

The remains of Mrs. Amelia Wiley, who died in South Bristol Saturday night were brought to this city yesterday for interment in Achorn cemetery, services having been held that morning in South Bristol. The deceased was the widow of Jacob Wiley, and had been a resident of Rockland all her life up to about 12 years ago. Her death was undoubtedly hastened by a fall which she sustained about six weeks ago. She was 90 years of age last April—a very dear old lady whom everybody loved and revered. She is survived by only daughter, Mrs. Clarence Hall of Winchester, Mass.

Tickets for the musicale under the auspices of the Chapin Class at the home of Mrs. David Talbot this Tuesday evening have been in great demand and it is expected that the success of a similar event held in this beautiful home a year ago will be repeated even to a larger degree. Such well-known artists as the Warren Male Quartet; Rev. C. A. Knickerbocker, reader; Miss Mary Bird, Miss Thelma Littlefield, Miss Clara Thomas and Charles Wilson, vocalists; the Universalist Quartet; Miss Ethel Thomas, monologist; Mrs. Joyce Jones, pianist; and Miss Doris Hyster, mandolinist, guarantee a program of real worth and enjoyment and announcement is now made that another novel feature has been added, a whistling solo by Annie Dunn, who is a young piano pupil of Miss Margaret Stahl, and displays much talent in the unusual art of whistling. The program is at 8 o'clock.

AN APPLE SHOW

Rockland Folks To See Some Fine Specimens Wednesday and Thursday.

The annual meeting of the Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau, together with a fruit show, will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Temple Hall.

Only the fancy grade fruit will be shown. This is the first show of its kind in the county and much interest is expected. There will be only three varieties shown, McIntosh Red, Delicious and Northern Spy. These are the three standard varieties and the ones which the Extension Service feels worthy of consideration for this county.

All exhibits must be at the hall by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. This will give the judges an opportunity to award prizes before the afternoon session. A. K. Gardner, orchard specialist of Orono, formerly of Rockland, and Prof. Waring of the Horticultural department of University of Maine will be the judges.

The afternoon program tomorrow will be open to the public and everyone in the city will be given an opportunity to see the exhibits and listen to the speakers. The show will also be open to visitors tomorrow evening.

The annual meeting of the Farm Bureau will be held Thursday in the same building. Following is a list of those buying apples exhibited at Apple Show: A. B. Higgins, Fred T. FIVE MATCHED RACES

Canary Yellow Was a Color To Conjure With At Knox Trotting Park Last Saturday.

The season at Knox Trotting Park—first since the sport was abandoned there many years ago—closed Saturday with five matched races which won the enthusiastic approval of some 500 turf fans.

Senator H. C. Buzzell of Belfast, who is in the thick of a very interesting fight for the U. S. Senatorial nomination, nevertheless took time to come down and start the races. His arrival was necessarily delayed, and Frank M. Simmons in his usual accommodating manner, consented to start 'em away for the first heat. The judges were Fred Carroll, Col. Walter H. Butler and Charles Mitchell. Harold B. Burgess was clerk and A. E. Boggs, Alex. McDonald and Burleigh Fairfield acted as timers.

Class A introduced the bay gelding Joe Hal, owned by J. H. Hobbs of Camden, and the bay mare Helen Russell, owned by Fred M. Blackington of Rockland. The Camden competitor lugged off the honors in straight heats, but had to step 2 3/4, 2 3/4 and 2 3/4 to turn the trick.

Two Rockland horses lined up for the Class B race—the chestnut gelding Dorland Cook owned by George M. Simmons and the bay gelding Peter Pan, owned by M. Frank Donohue. George held the reins over Dorland Cook, and guided the handsome chestnut around the oval in 2 1/4, 2 3/4 and 2 3/4, and never in serious danger.

The eternal question this season has concerned the relative merits of the bay gelding John Opp, owned by G. W. Bacheelder, and the bay mare, Mary Aberdeen, owned by Frank Butler. The gelding was three strong Saturday and solved the big question by coming under the wire first in straight heats.

There had been a good deal of speculation as to whether Dr. Ellingwood would be in the driver's seat in the Class D race. When his brown gelding, The Sheik, came out of the stable, sure enough there was the doctor, himself, gorgeously arrayed in a canary yellow uniform, looking every inch the horseman. George Bacheelder is also some classy driver, but whether the doc's canary yellow dazzled him, or not, he could not succeed in bringing Flying Nimbly under the wire ahead. Some fast time was made in this race—2 1/4, 2 1/4 and 2 1/4.

There was another race, best two in three, which presented Henry Carleton's Seddie Mann, Dr. Ellingwood's Bagdad and Mr. Dunbar's Major D. Seddie Mann won the race, with Major D second. The time was 2:40 and 2:30.

Contrary to expectations the race was favored with rare October weather, and everybody spent a comfortable and interesting afternoon.

And now the boys will sit around the stables telling all who care to listen what they are going to do to the other fellow when the ice racing begins.

Repairs on Trainer's Restaurant are proceeding rapidly.

ON TO BATH!

Rockland High Has One Purpose This Week, and That's To Beat Morse.

The Rockland High School football team's war-cry, beginning yesterday, and which will continue until the final whistle of the Rockland High and Morse High of Bath game, Saturday, will be "Rockland Beat Morse."

The team has suffered two reversals in succession and now its blood is up. The boys are out for revenge and Morse will probably be their victim. The team is expecting a hard fight because Morse seems to be in the same predicament, having lost several games in succession. If Morse wins she will know that she has been in a football game.

Monday's practice was held on the High School grounds. New plays were tried out and they certainly went well, for the first time. Some signal practice was held and a few changes of positions. Emery who played the whole Hebron game has found a permanent position if he continues to play as well as he did on Friday. Orne is now playing regular center. His passing was good Friday, except for a few tries.

STRAND THEATRE
In his present production, "A Hero of the Big Snows," now at the Strand Theatre, Rin-Tin-Tin gives the finest performance of his career as the brave and loyal dog who rescues a girl from a hungry wolf pack, and who brings her baby sister to safety through a blinding snowstorm.

For Wednesday and Thursday Mgr. Dondis has booked Letrice Joy and Harold Lloyd, Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, et al, had better look to their laurels, for the charming actress has entered the field of feature comedies in competition. In "Eve's Leaves," Letrice has launched on her comedy career. She has been noted for her ability in comedy scenes although unlike many of her sister stars, she never appeared in two-reel slapsticks. Don't forget the Merchants' tickets Wednesday and Thursday—adv.

PARK THEATRE

Today Constance Talmadge in "The Buffalo Duchess" will have its last showing. There is the usual added attractions.

What "The Iron Horse" was to the story of the early railroads, and "The Covered Wagon" to the west-bound pioneers, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Blarney," is to the bare knuckle days of prize fighting. The picture, which comes to the Park Theatre Wednesday and Thursday has been enacted by a notable cast. The story itself appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and is considered the classic of the prize ring. Ralph Graves, one of the newest and most interesting of male graduates from comedies, plays the role of Carbine, while Renee Adoree, noted for her recent work in "The Big Parade," and "The Blackbird," plays the heroine, Peggy Nolan—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Today will be the last opportunity to see George Walsh in "A Man of Quality" Chapter seven of "Snowed In" and the Pathe News will complete the program.

The double feature program for Wednesday and Thursday includes Letrice Joy in "The Clinging Vine" and William Fairbanks in "The Winning Wallop." "The Clinging Vine" gives Miss Joy an opportunity to display her talents in a widely different type of role from any she has portrayed in the past. The development of the charming star from a mannish, efficient, business-woman into a super-feminine "clinging vine," provides the hinge on which the plot swings. In "Winning Wallop," "Big Bill" Fairbanks is the wallop and Frank Hagney is the unfortunate party on the receiving end but he gives a very good account of himself before kissing the canvas as the sportswriters say. The story is all about a college athlete who proves to his and his fiancée's father that he can earn money as quickly and in as large amounts, with his fists as the two dads can with all their years of business training—adv.

BURPEE'S 361 MAIN ST. ROCKLAND MAINE

STATE LIBRARIANS

Will Have An Interesting Meeting This Present Week In Brewer.

When the Maine Library Association holds its fall meeting in Brewer next Thursday and Friday they will have the pleasure of listening to one of Maine's newest fiction writers, Mildred Wesson, the author of "Big House," who is to speak Thursday afternoon at two o'clock upon the views propounded by the main character of her book, "Stephen."

Mrs. Wesson has made her home in Brewer since the death of her husband in 1915. Though in this time she has had published many girls' stories and poems in Delacorte, Designer, Youth's Companion and St. Nicholas, "Big House" is her first novel. She is a member of the State Library Association and for two years was director for Northern Maine for the Unitarian Women's Alliance. Her novel, which has been ordered for the Rockland Library, has met with enthusiastic response from reviewers and Maine librarians report a general satisfaction from the readers of this typically Maine story.

Other features of the two-day convention are the lecture Friday afternoon by Hon. Payson Smith, commissioner of education for Maine, on the subject, "The Language of Arts;" round table discussions on recent books, library extension work, ideals and "The Spirit of Progress." State wide library activities and "Impressions of the A. L. A. 50th Anniversary." Miss Martha Bartlett, formerly librarian of Rockland Public Library, is president of the Maine Library Association.

The newly elected National vice commander of the American Legion, Major John G. Towne of Waterville, will be the guest of the local post Nov. 4. A business meeting is scheduled for the Thursday night session this week and with the big ball of Nov. 11 nearing the boys have their hands full.

William T. Smith is installing the heating apparatus in Armour & Co.'s new building on Lisle street.

Driving quietly along through the outer Waldoboro woods in quest of game Friday John G. Snow and Harold Coombs simultaneously saw a flash of white speeding through the dense underbrush and instantly both hunters were afoot. A wild chase through the toughest possible half mile of wild forest tangle ensued with the quarry ever just out of range. Suddenly the scratched and tattered and badly blown nimrod burst into a cleared space where a woman was engaged in gathering apples. "Which way did that white fox go?" they gasped with their breath. "White fox nothing!" exclaimed the woman in wrath, "that was my white cat you were a-pestering."

Mr. Stevens gave the boys the benefit of his experience in a great furniture sales organization and built his talk around meeting one's obligations; meeting chain store competition; progressive methods in buying and merchandizing; grading stocks closely; putting 10 percent of the gross into advertising; securing a proper sales organization and keeping up collections. It was the type of talk that particularly suits the Club. Col. Ira G. Hersey will speak next Monday and Chairman S. Nilo Spear of the publicity committee has arranged for a group picture of the Club at that time and is particularly anxious for 100 percent attendance.

HAS GLORIOUS HISTORY

Story of the Maine State Grange Which Entertains the National Grange Next Month.

As the Patrons of Maine this year play the role of hosts to the session of the National Grange, with the likelihood that they will have more guests on the coming November occasion than have ever been entertained at any previous Grange occasion in all the history of the Order, those who will soon be heading for Portland will feel a keen personal interest in everything that pertains to Maine Grange work and will be glad to know something of the details of what the Order has done in that state and its steady, upward climb to the position of distinct rural leadership which it now holds there.

The Order in Maine dates back to 1873, when the first subordinate in the State was organized October 24th, Eastern Star, No. 1, located at Hampden in Penobscot County. A. K. Walker was the organizer and 27 names were written on the charter roll. The next subordinate was Lewiston, No. 2, organized exactly three months later by O. D. Hinckley, with 20 charter signers. Up to June 27, 1874, 18 charters had been issued by the National Grange to subordinates in Maine.

On April 21st, however, Mr. Hinckley, who bore the commission of a general deputy of the National Grange, met the masters of the 18 subordinates of Maine in Grand Army Hall at Lewiston and, assisted by State Master Dudley T. Chase of New Hampshire, organized the Maine State Grange of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, with the following subordinate Granges represented by their masters:

Eastern Star, No. 1, A. K. Walker, Master; Lewiston, No. 2, Nelson Ham; Pine, No. 3, E. N. Chamberlain; Auburn, No. 4, N. B. Tracy, (Secretary); Excelsior, No. 5, Chas. H. Cobb; Northern Light, No. 6, George Clements; Eureka, No. 7, Herman Sawyer; Androscoggin, No. 8, John M. Jackson; Harraseeket, No. 9, Rufus Tuttle; North Jay, No. 10, J. O. Keyes; Rising Star, No. 11, E. H. Clements; Farmington, No. 12, Peter E. Norton; Dirigo, No. 13, Hartwell Little; Granite, No. 14, Nathaniel Dyer; Presumpscot, No. 15, L. B. Dennett; Houlton, No. 16, Charles E. Gilman; Eastern Border, No. 17, Elbridge Knight; Somerset, No. 18, Sumner Robbins.

With the exception of Eastern Border, No. 17, every one of these 18 original Granges instituted considerably more than a half century ago are still alive and doing active work and have functioned continuously. In later years, however, a new Grange replaced No. 17. The first officers of the Maine State Grange were:

Master, Nelson Ham; overseer, C. E. Gilman; lecturer, L. B. Dennett; steward, E. H. Clements; assistant steward, Hartwell Little; chaplain, P. E. Norton; treasurer, Charles H. Cobb; secretary, John M. Jackson; gatekeeper, George Clements; Ceres, Mrs. Harriet P. Ham; Pomona, Mrs. S. Josephine Dennett; Flora, Mrs. Wealthy H. Cobb; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Hattie L. Jackson; executive committee, A. K. Walker, Nathaniel Dyer, J. O. Keyes and Herman Sawyer.

At this institution meetings by laws for the new State Grange were adopted, a State seal designed and agreed upon, and a purchasing agent named to arrange with dealers and manufacturers for buying goods at wholesale rates.

On December 8, 1874, the State Grange met again in Grand Army Hall, Lewiston, and this is designated as the first annual session of the Maine State Grange. Much constructive work was done, plans made for vigorous activity ahead, and so successfully did they work out that when the Patrons came into session in December, 1875, in City Hall, Bangor, 94 subordinates were represented. At that time worthy Master Nelson Ham presented a comprehensive written address and steps were taken to organize a Patrons Mutual Fire Insurance Company for farm buildings.

The secretary reported that 139 Granges had been organized in Maine, nearly all in flourishing condition. Mr. Ham was re-elected and a vote was passed to have the State Grange incorporated.

Waterville entertained the third annual session December 12, 1876, and at that time a committee was named to devise a plan for organizing the Patrons Mutual Aid Society, which flourished for many years. From that time on the Maine State

Grange has made steady progress, has been efficiently officered and the cordial support of its great rank and file of sturdy members has never once failed. Grange halls have rapidly dotted the hillsides and valleys of the Pine Tree State—more than 400 of them at present—representing, with contents a tremendous property ownership and amply evidencing the stability of Maine Grange work.

During the 50 years of its existence the Maine State Grange has had 10 masters and their terms of service have been as follows:

Nelson Ham, from organization to December, 1877.
O. H. Thing, 1877 to December, 1881.

C. O. Purington to December, 1921.
Merle J. Harriman, December, 1923. Quite remarkably only four Patrons have served as secretary during all these 52 years: John M. Jackson, from organization to December, 1881; D. M. Hall, December, 1881—December, 1885; F. A. Allen, December, 1885—September 30, 1895; E. H. Libby, December, 1895 to the present time, establishing a record of continuous service in the office of state secretary that amply entitles him to the loving salutation with which he is so frequently addressed by the Patrons, "Father Libby." Of the past masters the only ones living are Obadiah Gardner, C. S. Stetson and W. J. Thompson.

The present situation of subordinate Granges by counties in Maine is as follows: Androscoggin 24, Arrostook 31, Cumberland 37, Franklin 17, Hancock 22, Kennebec 31, Knox 21, Lincoln 21, Oxford 36, Penobscot 53, Piscataquis 22, Sagadahoc 10, Somerset 23, Waldo 26, Washington 28, York 27. The city of Portland is located in Cumberland county and several of the latter's subordinates are within a short distance of the city limits; while Stroudwater, No. 480, is in the city itself; with a membership of nearly 200; Pleasantdale, No. 431, is located at South Portland, with 195 members; Mount Independence, No. 423, is but a short distance in the suburbs with 40 members; the same is true of Deerling, No. 535, with over 300 members; while Cape Elizabeth Grange is situated on a projecting point into the Atlantic Ocean itself in remarkably picturesque environment and proud of a present membership of almost 500.

The Grange in Maine conducts many successful stores, with outstanding examples at Houlton and North Jay, and carries on a great number of buying and selling enterprises for the good of its membership. Almost without exception these projects have been capably officered and therefore permanently successful. The Grange has also supplied the initiative for many shipping associations and other commission projects from which the farmers have derived great benefit and whose managers have been trained by years of Grange experience. Especially has this been true with the various potato raising and shipping organizations that cover the state looking towards the satisfactory marketing of Maine's leading agricultural staple.

Ritualistic work receives much attention from the Maine Granges, scores of well trained degree teams bring out the beautiful impressiveness of the ritual and furnish inspiration to thousands of Patrons towards all worthy Grange ends. The young people are a prominent factor in Grange activities, while especially noticeable in any Maine Grange gathering will be the great number of men and women well advanced in years, but still retaining keen inter-

End ALL Dandruff in 5 Minutes!

Yes, you can dissolve every particle of dandruff in a few moments' time—with Danderine. Leaving your scalp clean and white and clean as any child's!

So many hair and scalp disorders yield to the first few drops of Danderine! Thousands use it to prevent hair falling out. Fully a million owe the silky softness of their hair to its gentle invigoration. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave. Why experiment with anything else, when Danderine is not surpassed even as a dressing?

Ask Your Druggist

Get a bottle of Danderine and start its benefits today. Every drugstore in America has it, for only 35c. For the finest dressing you could find, and the best aid to hair health yet discovered, just try—

Grange has made steady progress, has been efficiently officered and the cordial support of its great rank and file of sturdy members has never once failed. Grange halls have rapidly dotted the hillsides and valleys of the Pine Tree State—more than 400 of them at present—representing, with contents a tremendous property ownership and amply evidencing the stability of Maine Grange work.

During the 50 years of its existence the Maine State Grange has had 10 masters and their terms of service have been as follows:

Nelson Ham, from organization to December, 1877.
O. H. Thing, 1877 to December, 1881.
Frederick Robie, 1881 to December, 1889.
Rufus Prince, 1889 till his death, 1891.

C. S. Stetson, 1907 to December, 1915.
W. J. Thompson, 1915 to December, 1923.
John E. Abbott, December, 1923—Those who have served as state secretary in Maine during the same period have been:

GLAD TO SPREAD GOOD NEWS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—The friends of Mrs. Helen M. Kowalek of 6819 Hope Avenue, were glad to hear that she has regained her health. For quite some time Mrs. Kowalek was quite ill and it was impossible for her to work. She took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build her up. After she had started taking it, she wrote to the Pinkham Company as follows: "I certainly boast Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel stronger already and sleep sounder. I am very glad to spread the good news of how it has helped me."

"Happy to Recommend Pinkham's"

Detroit, Michigan.—"I heard of this medicine through an advertisement in the 'Detroit News' and wrote to Mrs. Grace Gilman, whose letter was published. Then I started taking the Vegetable Compound and got the best results. I used the Sanative Wash, too. I am really happy if I can advise women to take your medicine."—Mrs. M. E. Murphy, 12163 Washburn Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

This is a dependable medicine.

Look at Child's Tongue if Sick,
Cross, Feverish

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" at once if bilious or constipated

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.
When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.
You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless, "fruity laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.
Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. THE APPLE MARKET

Buyers Want Best Quality At Seemingly Low Prices.—A Slow Week.
Boston, Oct. 21.
Apple trade has been mighty slow for the past week. Buyers will take the best quality at what seems like low prices and the poorer grades go hard at lower prices. There are quite a few Baldwins coming, but trade generally is not ready to buy them freely except at a cheap price. The best Baldwins are generally selling at $1 to $1.10, with very good ones at 10 to 20 cents less. There doesn't seem to be any prospect of better prices at present, as all there is now is local demand; every small city and town having its own local supply, which is being urged for sale at low prices. Turnips are a little better and potatoes strong.

WIPING OUT THE TRAFFIC

Volstead Tells Minnesolans That the Liquor Business Is Now Unprofitable.
The prohibition law is wiping out the liquor traffic of the United States according to Andrew J. Volstead, sponsor of the dry enforcement act.
Mr. Volstead, who is legal adviser of the northwest prohibition administration with headquarters in St. Paul, Minn., told the Anti-Saloon League convention that the unlawful liquor business was becoming unprofitable, and soon will have to be abandoned because of the various agencies at work against bootlegging.
"Four stages followed passage of the dry law," he said. "First the drunkards bought patent medicines for their alcohol. Then attempts were made to rob government liquor warehouses. Later alcohol permits were obtained for the manufacture of products in which alcohol was needed, and then came smuggling of liquor from abroad.
"Today all these sources have been stopped and the business of running stills and selling liquor is becoming very unprofitable."

IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

KATHLEEN M. SNOW, LIBRARIAN
Week days: 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Children's Book Week, Nov. 7-13.
"After all there's nothing quite like a good book."

From Gaylord's Triangle, the trade organ of this large library supply house, comes the following: She was 19, pretty, and dressed up to the min ute. "Have you the book 'Oranges and Peaches'?" she asked the librar ian. The catalog revealed no such title. "I am sure that's what the professor said to get," the girl an swered. "It's by a man named Dar win." And the girl thought there was nothing funny about it when she left triumphantly with "The Origin of Species."

One of the most advantageous fea tures of having the High School art classes meet in the Library alcove is the opportunity it offers for special outside work. As these notes are being written two boys are diligently working on a sketch in charcoal. These classes meeting each Thurs day morning with Mrs. Mildred Carleton of Camden have made a most promising beginning for a profit able year's work. Oddly enough the class is wholly made up of boys— forty of them in all.

Ghost stories are in order for both the Friday night and the Saturday morning story hours this week. Re member the Friday evening stories are planned for children of 10 years or older. Co-operation of parents in keeping these age distinctions in mind can be extremely helpful to the librarians, for ghost stories can become very real, you know, if one is young and has to walk home alone from the library. Saturday morning story hours are for children from 10 years old, down to the tiniest of the sit-still-and-listeners.

Sixth graders are coming to the library this week for their instruc tion course in the use of books and the library. The course which is now being given for the fourth year is being given to groups of 15 children. It includes explanation of library ar rangement, followed by practical ex perience in actually using reference books and the card catalog. A written and oral examination is given at the end and credit is given in their school ranks.

The library is happy to announce that "The Idol of Twin Fires" by Walter Prichard Eaton may now be borrowed from its collection. This book, which is richly endowed with all the requirements of a pleasing yarn to read aloud, has long been out of print and but recently re-issued. It is the story of a professor and his restoration of an old farm house. In cidentally there is a pleasing love story included. It is the sort of thing one delights in introducing to one's best friends.

Those who crave a good Western of out-of-doors yarn will be interested in the following list of new titles re cently purchased:

"I Want to be a Lady," by Max millian Foster
"Phantom of Paradise Valley" by Clarke Covington.
"Channing Comes Through" C. A. Seltzer.
"Long Patrol" by A. M. Treynor.
"White Water" by R. E. Pinkerton.
"Van Patten" by B. M. Bower.
"Desert Thoroughbred" by Gregory Jackson.
"Broken Trail" by Harold Bindloss.

All of the books listed in Rufus M. Jones' reading course on the Life of Christ may now be borrowed from the library. The titles are as fol lows: "The Jesus of History" by T. R. Glover; "By an Unknown Disciple;" "The Life and Teachings of Jesus" by E. I. Bosworth; "Life of Jesus of Nazareth" by Bush Rees; "Jesus of Nazareth" by G. A. Barton and "A Small Town Man" by Mary Austin. In making his selection for the books to be included in this reading list Dr. Jones makes the following state ment: "There have been a few ex tensive and monumental lives of him in earlier time. Some of these larger works are still vital and valu able. But most readers do not want such heavy tomes. They want a briefer, more compact book, with a lighter touch and more reliable, the vision clear and penetrating, the judgment wise and discriminating, and withal there must be skill and power to tell a story, to arouse inter est, to hold the attention, to quicken the imagination, and to stir the deeper levels of the soul. The books I have chosen have these qualities to quite a degree, as they have been long enough before the public to have been pretty well weighed and tested. There is a survival of the fittest among books as there is everywhere in life and those which prove to be enduring and abiding are sure to possess some real qualities of worth."

Of the books listed attention is especially called to "By an Un known Disciple," a remarkable little book written as though the author had been an eyewitness to certain events in the life of Christ. It has especial appeal to young readers and has proven invaluable in Sunday Schools.

Have you a dog? Then you will be interested indeed in "Dr. Little's Dog Book," a standard authority on diet, care and diseases of dogs—in fact everything one could want to know about dogs. It is a requisite for the dog owner's five foot shelf. Workers with girls will find valu able information in Helen Ferris' new book "Girls' Clubs." It not only takes up the organization of such clubs but has invaluable chapters on activities, holding the interest, plan ning and managing programs. It has the hearty indorsement of the leaders of all national girls' organizations. It is believed that every mother will find much of value and helpfulness in the little book "Mothers and Daughters" recently written by Mrs.

Jessie Cosgrave. "Nothing new in it," one can almost hear some mothers say, but after all, when growing daughters are concerned it isn't so much the new one needs as it is to reinforce one's faith in the funda mental standards and adapt them to modern conditions. This is not an idealistic book but one based on practical experience both with the author's own daughters and with the hundreds of young girls with whom she has been in contact in a well known girls' school. Her book is rich in sympathetic, practical sug gestion.

Examinations on the books read in the Vacation Reading Club this sum mer were taken on Monday and have been sent to the State Library. Cer tificates are to be awarded during Children's Book Week. Other events scheduled for this annual library event include an exhibition of post ers made by students in the Portland High Schools illustrating the need of more books for children; exhibition of

RUMORS FILL THE AIR

As To a Baxter, Buzzell, Nelson Alliance—Belfast Man Not a Negligible Factor, Says Fred Owen.

On the eve of the Senatorial primary election many rumors fill the air. One is from the Lewiston Journal and reads very interestingly, but readers will have to accept it for what they may think it is worth. The Journal's story follows:

A persistent story in political circles is to the effect that Hodgdon C. Buzzell of Belfast, one of the quartet of aspirants for the senatorial seat made vacant by the death of Senator Fernald, has no expectation of winning, but that he is using this primary battle as a stepping stone to the seat of Congressman Nelson in the National House of Representatives.

It has been a public secret for nearly two years that Mr. Buzzell had been stung by the congressional bee; that he felt it was time "Bleeding Waldo" provided a member of the national house; that he was about the sized man to fill that seat. The president of the senate has not denied this. He has pleaded guilty. There was a period last winter when it was seriously expected he would give battle to Congressman Nelson in the primary of June, this year. He did not, but that was not from a cooling of his ambition.

Like all good politicians, and Buzzell is one of those, if he is anything in the world, he stayed out when the going looked rough.

Right in line with this public secret there is another which is about the same class, to wit: That Congressman Nelson wants to be a member of the United States Senate. He would like to round out his political career with that job. He was pleaded with to seek the vacancy caused by Fernald's death. His friends say that he was sorely tempted to get in. The one thing which deterred him was the danger of resentment by the voters of his district if he resigned from the house, as it was felt he should do to seek the senatorial nomination. Such a course would make necessary the nomination of a candidate not only to go to Congress next March but to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Nelson in the session which opens on Monday, Dec. 6, next. This might not have been pleasing to the voters of the third district. For that reason so it is said, Congressman Nelson remained out. For more than a year it has been whispered in political circles that he would oppose Senator Hale for the nomination in 1928. It has further been said that he would do this, even though Ex-Gov. Baxter were in the running and it was believed Mr. Baxter would be.

Senator Fernald's unexpected death rather complicated the situation. It made the election of a United States senator necessary at once, and, as explained in the foregoing, rather automatically eliminated Congressman Nelson from competing. At the same time it gave Mr. Baxter a chance to get in and he did. His getting in brought in another candidate in the person of Arthur R. Gould of Presque Isle. This added a new complication from the Nelson standpoint, as the story goes.

If Mr. Gould captured the nomination it removed one of the best battle cries which the Congressman would have against Senator Hale, that of lack of representation in eastern Maine. It also left Mr. Baxter as a probable contender in 1928. A triangular primary fight at that time with Hale and Baxter at the other two corners and eastern Maine sitting back pretty with one senator in place until 1930, did not look so rosy for the Nelson end. With both Senator Hale and Mr. Baxter occupying seats in the senate at Washington, Congressman Nelson could raise the banner of sectionalism and, so his friends believe, give him a victory over Senator Hale. This being so, says the story, those who would like to have Mr. Nelson a senator are not doing much to injure the Baxter cause.

The story is that an alliance was formed between friends of Nelson and prominent supporters of Baxter to work for the mutual advancement of both. That out of this alliance grew the candidacy for the senate of Mr. Buzzell.

As told the program arranged was for Mr. Buzzell to come into the senatorial contest, but with no hope of winning, although he was to make an aggressive fight, which he is doing. In return for this he was made to know that in 1928 Nelson would go after the Hale seat and he would have the support of the Nelson contingent for the Congressional nomination in the Third District.

The reason for such an agreement was that it was felt that, while Buzzell could not win he would pull a considerable strength and that he would take most of it from Gould, not touching the Baxter support to any degree.

It has been said that the Klan was going to support Buzzell in the primary. There have been some things to indicate that this was so and the story further is that the Klan, which has always opposed Baxter, would not stand for him in this contest. At one time it looked as though the Knights of the Pillow Case must either quit activities in the campaign or else support Gould. Neither was agreeable.

They did not want to drop out of active politics, neither did they all want to support Mr. Gould. It was at this pinching time, as the story is told, that those engaged in engineering the Baxter-Nelson-Buzzell deal, having their ears to the ground stepped in and brought about an agreement whereby the Klan would espouse the cause of Buzzell. The suggestion was adopted. All Klansmen, as is well known, do not endorse over Buzzell. They would like to support Jack, but the other faction say that in 1924, when he was a candidate Jack was only using the Klan for his own advantage and that they cannot regard him as the man the organization should support.

Color is lent to this story by reason of the knowledge that Mr. Buzzell and the Nelson forces have played together before.

In 1924, when the contest for speaker of the Maine House of Representatives and president of the Maine Senate was getting hot, Mr. Buzzell, who was the successful aspirant for the presidency and William Tudor Gardiner, who was chosen speaker of the House, worked together almost continually. Mr. Gardiner is the law partner of Congressman Nelson, as well as being a member of the senate. The Republican nomination for governor in 1928.

Fred K. Owen had the following comment on the Senatorship in the Portland Sunday Telegram:

"I was in Eastern Maine the first of the week and of course found everybody ready to talk of the senatorial primaries. Not everyone agreed as to how the vote will be divided in the eastern counties, much interest was manifested there, more perhaps than in the west or the central part of the State.

"One is struck first by the evidence of Gould activities in Bangor. The pictures of the candidate are shown in the windows and 'Vote for Gould' placards are carried on not a few vehicles. Most striking of all is a big banner hung across one of the streets proclaiming the Gould candidacy.

"There is less Baxter and Buzzell publicity in Bangor than for Gould and the impression one would get at first might be that it was wholly a one-sided proposition. That this would be a mistaken notion is ready gathered from the names of those connected with the Baxter club that was formed in Bangor Monday. Connected with it are many of the most active political workers in the city and county. An organization of which Hon. Arthur Chapin is president is not to be ignored politically. The club adopted resolutions, one paragraph touches on the senatorial question, it being to the effect that Mr. Baxter as governor 'was governor of the whole State of Maine and was as deeply interested in the Eastern counties as in those of the west.'

"Gould and Baxter supporters are both active in this part of Maine and both are making claims of widespread support, but this does not mean that Senator Buzzell is a negligible factor. He and his friends have been working more quietly perhaps, but a well informed man told me that the Senator would get a whole lot of votes in the two cities of Bangor and Brewer and would run well up alongside the others.

"There is Buzzell activity not only in the east but elsewhere. There is evidence of this in the newspaper advertising that has been in his behalf and also by the quite general circularizing of all parts of the State in behalf of the candidate. Some of this activity comes from what are generally understood to be Klan sources, but the Buzzell strength does not stop there. The Belfast man made many friends during his four terms in the Legislature and a great many of them are standing by him.

"The chief question of the East is how far the sectional question will influence voters. One gets many opinions about that. There would be no use to quote them, but it is not unlikely to prove true that this contest will be finally settled in the East, depending on how much of a factor the location issue is."

A TOUGH OLD STONE

Chevrolet Uses World's Hardest Diamond in Truing Pistons

The hardest diamond in the world is the property of the Chevrolet Motor Company which has used the big diamond continuously during the last 10 years in the dressing of abrasive wheels for precision grinding necessary to meet the Chevrolet standards of accuracy. Due to its extreme hardness, "C-66," as the gem is prosaically designated in the Chevrolet records, has outlived probably $500,000 worth of diamonds used by the company.

F. W. Smith, grinding engineer of the General Motors corporation, and inventor of a patented method for setting grinding diamonds, contends that "Old C-66" is a freak. It is a South African black ballas diamond originally weighing about 30 carats," he said. "Today, after 10 years of continuous service in truing the grinding wheels used on piston jobs, it still weighs 25 carats. An ordinary grinding diamond would have worn out years ago. 'Old C-66' is so hard that it requires resetting only about three times a year. Only diamond truing will give the absolute accuracy essential on a wheel used in sizing such important parts as engine bearings and pistons."

In his patented method of setting diamonds he first electro-plates the exterior with copper which forms a union so close as to be invisible even under 1,000 magnifications. A circular recess in a steel slug used to hold the diamond in the wheel-truing machine is then filled with molten fuse metal. The copper-plated diamond is immersed in the metal which hardens, leaving exposed about one-third of the gem's surface.

This core of fuse metal gives the diamond complete protection against damaging high temperatures which might result should the grinding mechanic fail to play water upon the diamond while it is truing a wheel. The fuse metal will melt and release the diamond at 670 F or 250 degrees below a temperature that might injure its surface.

After being placed in the grinding machine under a stream of water, the diamond is moved slowly back and forth against the surface of the wheel which revolves at a speed of 6,500 feet or more than a mile per minute. The even friction of the diamond dresses the face of the wheel smooth and true. The wheel then is used in grinding operations upon bearings, pistons, and other important engine parts to which it confers the unvarying microscopic accuracy demanded by the standards department as Chevrolet's assurance of reliable service and long life.

FIGHT FAKE BARGAINS

Determined Effort Is Being Made To Protect Trade- Marked Goods.

Supporters of the Capper-Kelly Bill to prevent fake bargain sales of trade-marked goods, upon which hearings were held by the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee shortly before the close of the last session of Congress, are preparing for a strong fight in behalf of the bill at the session opening in December. Senator Capper, of Kansas, has announced his intention of pushing the bill in the Senate.

Actively behind the campaign will be the American Fair Trade Association, composed of representatives of leading business concerns throughout the country. The association has the active co-operation of more than 600 trade organizations. One thing to which it will devote itself is definitely placing before the public the identity of those opposing the resale price bill.

"When that is done," says F. B. Caswell, vice-president of the Champion Spark Plug Co., of Toledo, "the public readily will recognize that the opposition is limited to a few large concerns whose business is based on the use of standard trade-marked goods as advertising bargain bait. The continued success and prosperity of American retail trade is absolutely dependent on the success of the individual, independent retailer. He in turn can be successful only in the measure that he receives a fair price for the articles he sells."

"That is why the Capper-Kelly Bill is of vital importance to retailers generally. Under present conditions cut rate stores of various kinds succeed in obtaining a small supply of well known merchandise which has the public's confidence. They offer these goods at reduced prices to draw people to their stores, that they can sell unknown or unbranded merchandise, on which they reap enormous profit."

"That is unfair to the merchants who sell dependable, nationally-known goods at fair prices. The public also suffers through having foisted on it goods not worthy of its confidence. As the people become more generally conscious of these facts they are acquainting their senators and representatives with their feelings. We are already assured of considerable support in Congress which was lacking at the last session."

TENANT'S HARBOR DAYS

When the snappy fall days come around I begin to dream of the old home. While Dad lived I used to get down to the Harbor for a few days about this time of year and get a chance to go smelting. It was as near "heaven on earth" as I ever expect to reach—for me to be able to don that outfit I kept at the old home, light the old pipe, go down to the Crick, catch my minnows and then fish along the shore as I did when a boy.

Along in 1881 while in New York State I had a bad attack of malaria, and every year for many years in September I would have a recurrence of that dread disease. Smelt fishing acts that way with me but I am afraid I am never going to get rid of the disease. As Edgar Guest so aptly puts it:

The brotherhood of rod and line
An' sky an' stream is always fine;
Men come real close to God's design,
Out fishin'.

Guest is right. It is the combination of the elements he mentions that makes a man forget everything but the task he is working at, "just fishin'." Round Dorchester Bay, Quincy and the South Shore they catch smelts from a boat mostly. I wouldn't give a rap for that kind of smelt fishing. I want to fish as I used to fifty years ago, and if I could have two or three of my boon companions of those days with me so much the better.

I had the pleasure of entertaining for a brief space my boyhood fishing friend and schoolmate, J. Frank Bickmore of Denver, Colorado, who is some fisherman. He caught a 50-pound codfish while at the Harbor this summer, and says he hopes to better it next season.
